Join Howard Herskowitz, author of "Aaron's Journey From Slave to Master," as he tells the amazing story of his 5'2" father, Aaron Herskowitz whose "job descriptions" during World War II included slave to the Hungarian Nazis, then escaping to the Russians, for whom he became a bounty hunter and captured hundreds of Nazi officers and spies, then interrogated them before turning them over to the Russians, and even being appointed by the Russians as overlord of a captured enemy town. In this dramatic presentation (including compelling video footage of Aaron telling the story in his own words), Howard will share the heroism, the adventure, and the astonishing love story of Aaron's war years. Howard will make this true story come alive for you as you get to know this remarkable hero of the recent past.

The book has been endorsed by the late Congressman Tom Lantos (the only Holocaust survivor to serve in Congress), military historian Col. David Glantz, Jewish Book World, and others (get the details at www.aaronjourney.com).

Have Howard autograph copies of the book you can buy for yourself or as a gift.

A Love that Beat the Odds

Aaron also survived by drawing on the memory of the woman he loved — and managed, against all odds, to find her again years later, each believing the other had perished.
